

Where can I find tools to help myself, and others, get healing for life's wounds?

This first level school is open to Christians and lays the foundations for healing and transformation. It is designed with two purposes, firstly to help the participants themselves and secondly to equip them to be able to minister to others.

School lessons include core teachings, which help us understand how hearts are wounded and how they can be healed.

Some of the topics covered include - bitter roots, inner vows, shame, forgiveness, foundational lies, trauma and unmet needs.

The school runs over six weekends, one a month and each weekend there will be teaching on DVD. There are 25 lessons in all, plus some demonstrations. There will be times of worship, you will get hands-on experience in small groups and have lots of fellowship with others on the school.
